My dear Sir,

You have probably forgotten me, but I have not forgotten you,
nor the great kindness
you shewed to my wife & self, in Boston, twenty years ago.

I am sorry I failed
to see you when in London, & that I did not know till yesterday,
how to address a line

to you.

My wife & I are
very anxious to show
our gratitude for past kindness. Shall you not come back again
to London? If so,
pray let us have the pleasure - the honor
- of shewing you some
hospitality. I loved & defended you, in my humble way, when
nearly all men "reviled"
you. Oh what felicity
it would be to have

you for a little time
under my roof!

I have been here
now for 17 years.

How is Mrs. Garrison?

Is she with you?

We should be delighted to see her.

We leave town about the 5th or 6th of August
for our month's vacation; but would gladly
put it off, or shorten
it a little for the sake of seeing you.

I enclose a ship
that may help to bring me to your recollection.

I remain, Dear Sir, Yours with high
esteem & warm affection Davies.

AMERICAN SCENES and CHRISTIAN SLAVERY.

A RECENT TOUR OF FOUR THOUSAND MILES IN THE UNITED STATES.

By EBENEZER DAVIES.

"It is impossible to do anything approaching to justice to this volume by statement. It must be read to be appreciated. It is one of those books that intelligent persons could read on and on, and for ever. The only page that will be perused with any feeling of uneasiness will be the last, to think that the feast is at an end."—Christian Witness.

"They will find in it much of a deeply interesting nature, valuable information, an insight into American life and manners, and the reflections of an enlightened Christian minister, on the main features of the American republic."—Westeyan Times.

"His portrait of the slave-raising, slave-selling, and occasionally free negro kidnapping system, is vigorous and authentic. This book has our commendation. The rapid glance cast over American society, from New Orleans to New York, is that of a good and earnest man, and a pleasant travelling companion."—Watchman.

"Written in an easy, sketch-book sort of style, abounding with scenes and incidents described with considerable graphic effect. We invite the attention of our readers to two personal sketches, (those of John Todd and Jacob Abbott) which well exemplify the skill of our author as a portrait-painter. On the whole we can recommend this volume, as being both entertaining and instructive."—Sunday School Teacher's Magazine."

"Of the many books that have been written on America, its institutions and its people, we know of none possessing higher claims to the attention of British Christians, than these deeply-interesting letters. They are truly graphic, and full of life and energy. Mr. Davies is evidently a man of deep thought, and of close observation. Nothing escapes him. He perceives quickly, and he judges candidly and soundly of the events that come within his notice."—British Mothers' Magazine.

"Mr. Davies is honorably known, as an agent of the London Missionary Society, who for some years has resided at New Amsterdam, Berbice. The book is a good book, and we recommend it to all our readers. It should be circulated widely, and will be prized wherever it is known."—Eclectic Review.

"It is written in a free, off-hand style, and contains a vast amount of information. It is altogether a production which cannot fail to excite much interest on both sides of the Atlantic."—Standard of Freedom.

"It is written in a style of great clearness and vivacity, and abounds with description, incident, and anecdote, so that the interest never flags for a moment."—Herald of Peace.

"An interesting work, which we cordially recommend to the attention of our readers."—Anti-Slavery Reporter.

"Many scenes are vividly sketched, and calculated to make the blood of a free-man boil with indignation."—Evangelical Magazine.

"A work full of instruction, amusement, and variety."—Nonconformist.

"For the sake of the bold and continued testimony against Slavery, we wish it success. Fearless, faithful, and thoroughly English, is his abhorrence of the system in all its manifestations."—Christian Times.
